

The Mother on Human Relations & Yoga

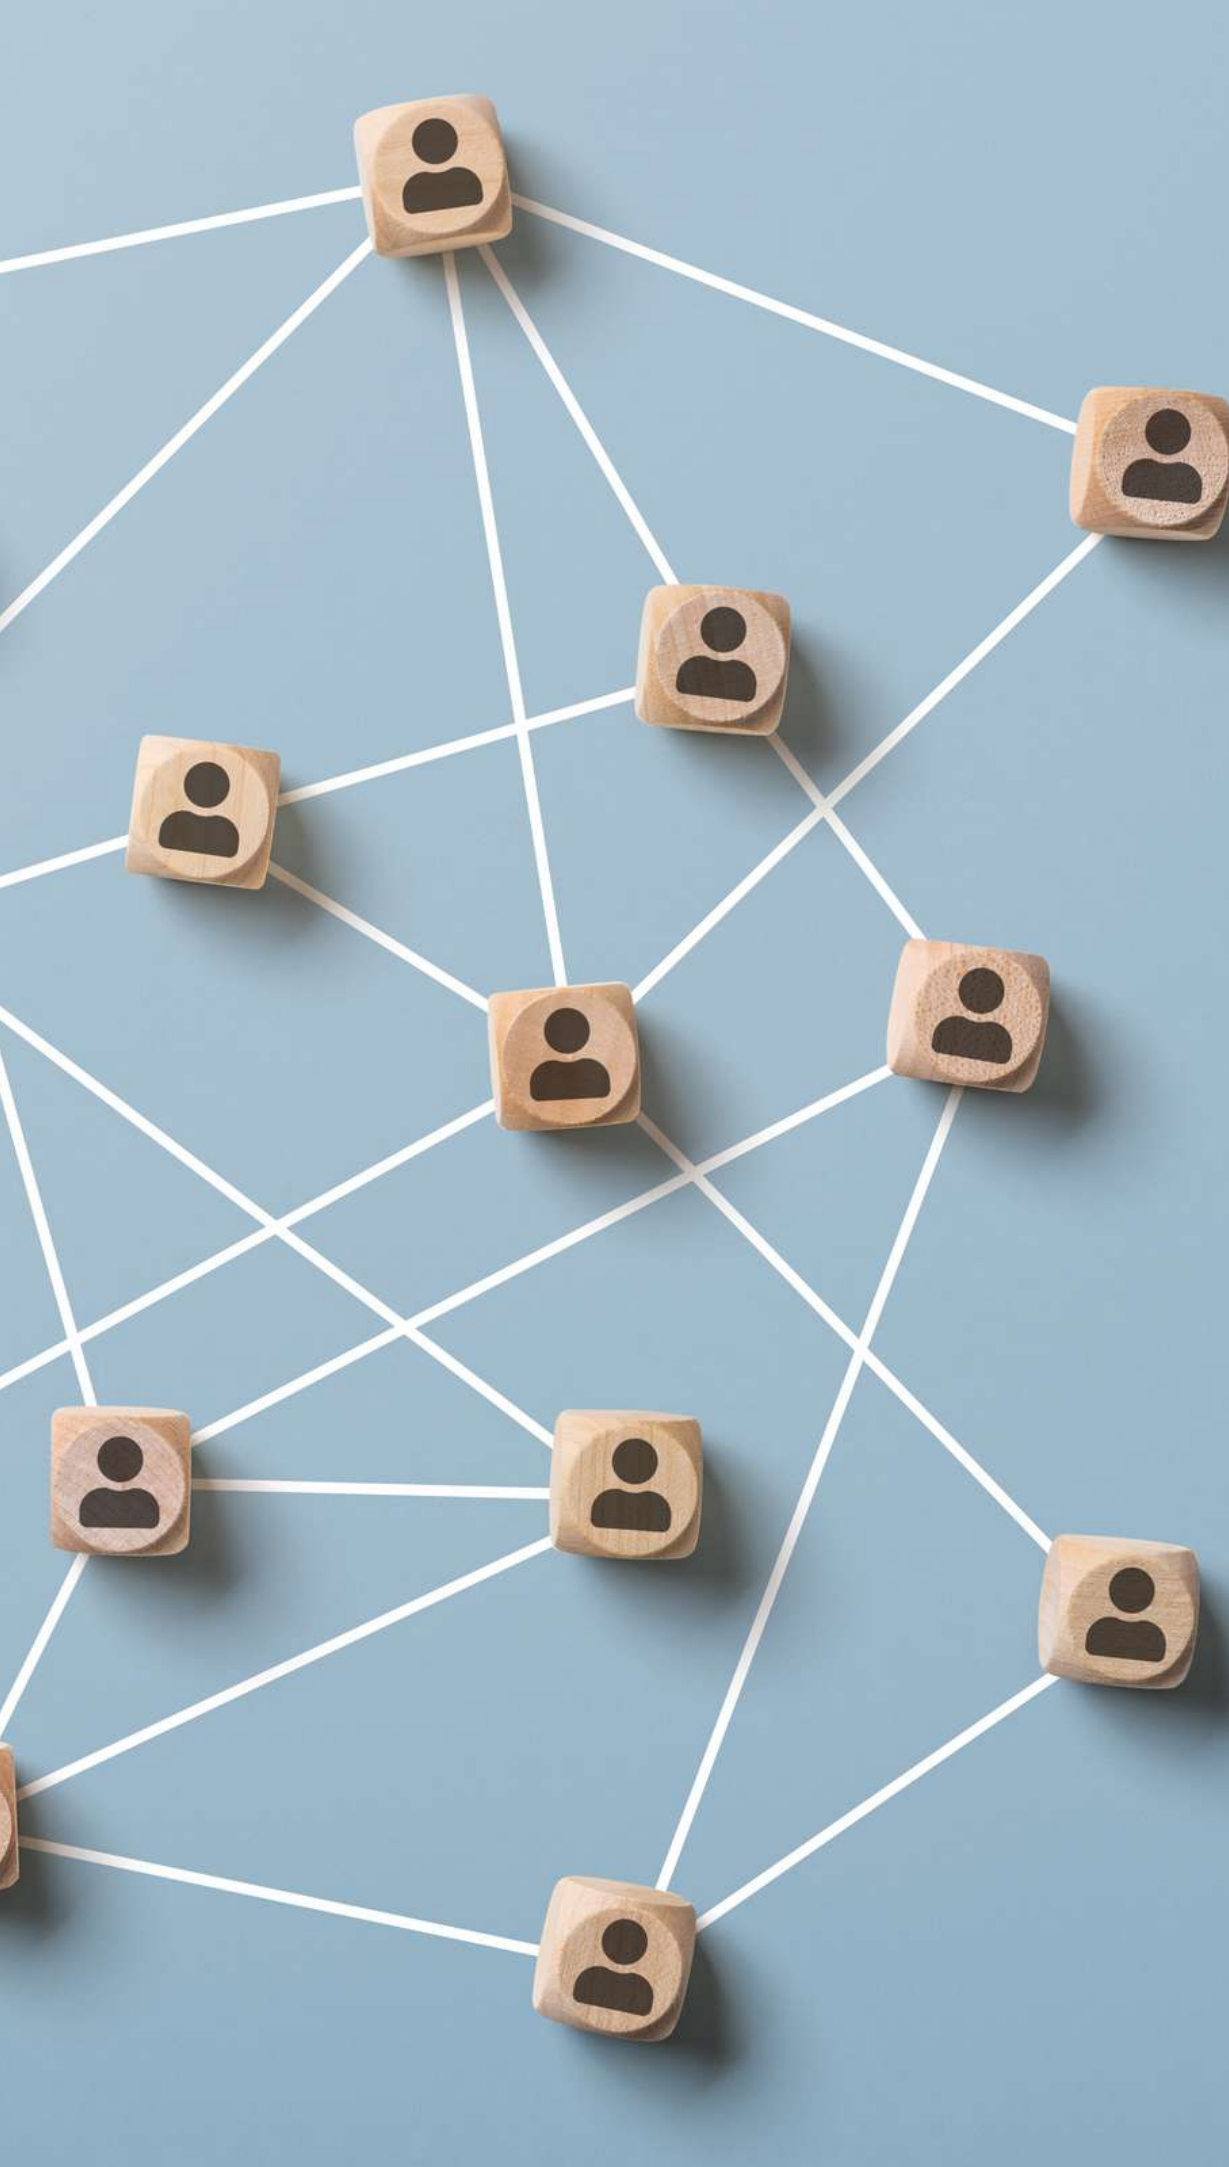

. . . in life your relations
with others are like a mirror
which is presented to you so that you can see more easily and clearly the weaknesses
you carry within you.

The Mother, CWM, 10: 22

It is true that it is extremely difficult to keep free from vital mixture any close relation with human beings. But the remedy is not to cut all such relations, but to be constantly vigilant (on one's guard) and not to allow the vital attractiveness to rule one's actions.

The Mother, CWM, 14: 284

All that is based on human relationship is unstable and transient, mixed and unsatisfactory; it is only what is established in the Divine and through the Divine that can last and give satisfaction.

The Mother, CWM, 14: 283

Keep yourself free
from all human attachment and you will be happy.

The Mother, CWM, 14: 284

Friends

. . . you should choose as friends only those who are wiser than yourself, those whose company enables you and helps you to master yourself, to progress, to act in a better way and see more clearly.

The Mother, CWM, 9: 58

Our best friend is
he who loves us
in the best of ourselves
and yet does not ask us
to be other than we are.

The Mother, CWM, 14: 288

You have no right to judge a man unless you are capable of doing what he does better than himself.

The Mother, CWM, 14: 273

It is one of the highest virtues—not to poke
your nose in the affairs of others.

The Mother, CWM, 14: 274

Judging people is one of the first things which must be totally swept away from the consciousness before you can take even a step on the supramental path. . .

The Mother, CWM, 9: 135

With our own perfection grows in us a generous understanding of others.

The Mother, CWM, 14: 273
